

The Middlesbrough Roll of Honour of the Great War Names "C"

Compiled by Robert Coulson (1952 – 2008)

In the years 1914-1918 thousands of Middlesbrough men and women served their country in a time of hardship, stress and suffering both for the troops on the battlefronts and those left at home.

After the Armistice in November of 1918 handsome memorial tablets and plaques recalling the fallen were erected in the works, shops and churches of the Middlesbrough area.

At this time a committee was formed to consider the question of a war memorial for the town as a whole to remember the citizens who had laid down their lives. In the words of the committee,

“We recognise the splendid sacrifice made by our men and we desire that our children and our children’s’ children should hear the story and share in the inspiration which such sacrifice will always give”.

The response of the townspeople resulted in the fine cenotaph of Aberdeen granite and the wall of Portland stone containing the bronze panels with the names of the fallen that we see today at the entrance to Albert Park.

The memorial works were completed at a cost of approximately £17,000 and the people of the town attended in their thousands for the dedication and unveiling ceremony which took place on November 11th 1922.

This roll of honour contains close to 3500 names of the fallen who are remembered on the memorial and also those whose names were put forward by their families after the unveiling ceremony.

I felt it fitting that as the centenary of the onset of the Great War approaches I should try and add a little information on those remembered and the actions in which they laid down their lives.

I would just add that much as I regret it, details on some of these brave people is not available due to the passage of time but their names will still appear in the text as they do on the memorial panels.

Finally just a few points to consider,

It will be noticed that on some of the entries no Middlesbrough connection may be obvious, indeed the person appears to have come from well outside the area or even the country.

It must be remembered that it was the townspeople who put the names forward for inclusion and as an example a relation who stayed with the family in the town occasionally, could well appear after his family took the trouble to forward the name.

Middlesbrough was a thriving centre of industry at the time and a person may well have been employed in the town before hostilities and had their name included by workmates.

Serving under an alias is also quite common and although sometimes used to cover criminal activity, was normally just a person keen to serve but underage and using another identity.

Also a mother who had taken another man's name might have offspring who preferred to serve using their natural father's name.

Double entries for the same name also appear quite a few times, for example, Samuel Alder and S Alder.

I believe they are one and the same person named twice as a result of a large family with different branches putting the name forward twice.

The person will appear in the listing as named on the memorial with any variations in spelling and second names being included in the text.

It will be noticed that some entries begin "I believe this to be".

These are people who to the best of my judgement are those named but can not be 100% certain. They are included with the best intentions and if a mistake is made I make my apologies in advance.

Robert Henry Coulson died on 8 November 2008. His papers were donated to the Green Howards Museum in Richmond, and the work below comes from these papers.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cadman, W.

William Cadman was born and lived in the Eston area and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the Northumbrian Heavy Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Acting Bombardier Cadman was wounded in action close to Ypres and passed through the casualty clearing chain back to England.

He died of his wounds at home on June 23rd 1916 aged 27 and his grave today lies in Eston Cemetery situated on Normanby Rd.

William Cadman was the son of Sarah J and the late Stephen H Cadman of 57 Granville Road in Grangetown.

Cahill, Thomas.

Thomas Cahill was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cahill was wounded in action while the battalion were in the line in the Angres sector close to Bruay.

He died of his wounds on May 20th 1916 aged 29 and his grave today lies in Bruay Communal Cemetery Extension just to the south west of Bethune.

Thomas Cahill was the son of James and Mary Cahill of Middlesbrough.

Callaby, Thomas W.

Thomas William Callaby was born and lived in North Ormesby and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Callaby was killed in action on March 23rd 1917 aged just 19 in fighting close to Belloy and Bayonvillers.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Thomas Callaby was the son of Thomas R and Charlotte Ann Callaby of 30 Morris Street in North Ormesby.

Callaghan, John.

John Callaghan was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Callaghan was killed in action on January 22nd 1916 when the battalion holding the line close to Bray.

His grave can be visited today in Carnoy Military Cemetery at Carnoy just to the east of Albert.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Callan, Hugh.

Hugh Callan was born in South Bank and was a student at Hammersmith College in London before taking up a teaching position at St Marys School in Middlesbrough. He enlisted in Middlesbrough and served with the 105th battery, 22nd brigade of the Royal Field Artillery.

Driver Callan was killed in action on October 6th 1917 aged 33 during the Passchendaele offensive and his grave today lies in Hooze Crater Cemetery at Zillebeke, two and a half miles from Ypres in Belgium.

Hugh Anthony Callan was the son of Patrick and Mary Agnes Callan of South Bank and the husband of Matilda Callan, nee Connelly of 106 Granville Road in Middlesbrough.

Callaghan, Edward.

Edward Callaghan was born in Newport in Middlesbrough but lived in Goole and enlisted in Beverley.

With the 7th battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, Private Callaghan died due to war related illness or accident on April 17th 1917.

His grave can be seen today in Etaples Military Cemetery on the French channel coast, a large hospital centre during the war.

Edward Callaghan was the son of the late John and Ann Callaghan.

Calligon, George.

He is listed as serving on the troopship the SS Aquitania but his name does not appear on the Commonwealth War Graves Commission listings.

Calvert, Ernest.

2nd Lieutenant Ernest Calvert served with the 206th squadron of the Royal Air Force. He was wounded flying as observer in a DH 9 aircraft of 206 squadron on August 13th 1918 and died of his injuries the following day, August 14th 1918 aged just 19.

His grave can be seen today in Longuenesse St Omer Souvenir Cemetery situated two miles south of St Omer.

Ernest Calvert was the son of Edmund and Hannah Mary Calvert of 6 Aire Street in Middlesbrough.

Calvert, James.

James Calvert was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town into the 6th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Calvert was killed in action on September 30th 1916 in fighting at Hessian Trench and Stuff Redoubt during the Battle of the Somme.

His body lost to the battlefield his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing situated above the old battleground.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Calvert, James Cosgrove.

James Calvert was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town. With the 12th battalion of the Rifle Brigade, Rifleman Calvert was killed in action aged 22 on August 29th 1916 in trenches close to the Carnoy to Montauban road during the Battle of the Somme.

His grave can be visited today in Bernafay Wood British Cemetery at Montauban on the Longueval to Maricourt road.

James Cosgrove Calvert was the son of Mrs Mary Katherine Calvert of 1 Elliot Street in Middlesbrough.

Calvert, Thomas.

Thomas Calvert was born in Northallerton and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 12th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Calvert was killed in action on September 25th 1915 during the Battle of Loos.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Loos Memorial at Dud Corner Cemetery on the Bethune to Lens road.

Calvert, Thomas Ernest.

Double entry, I believe this to be Thomas Calvert listed above.

Camm, George.

George Camm was born in Leeds and lived and enlisted in Dundee. With the 7th battalion of the Kings Own Scottish Borderers, Private Camm was killed in action on May 1st 1916 and his grave today lies in Vermelles British Cemetery situated south west of the village on the road to Mazingarbe.

Campbell, John Edward.

John Campbell was born and enlisted for service in Northallerton. Originally with the Gloucester Regiment he then transferred over to the 148th Company of the Labour Corps.

Private Campbell died due to war related illness or accident on October 30th 1918 aged 32.

His grave today lies in Etaples Military Cemetery on the French channel coast where many hospital centres were based.

John Edward Campbell was the son of Robert and Mary Campbell and the husband of Ethel E M Campbell of 20 France Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Campbell, Matthew.

Matthew Campbell was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. With a Trench Mortar battery of the Royal Field Artillery, Bombardier Campbell was killed in action on July 10th 1917 in fighting south of the river Yser close to the Belgian coast.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Nieuport Memorial, one and a half miles from the sea on the Belgian coast.

Campbell, Charles.

Charles Campbell lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

Gunner Campbell served with the 24th Reserve Battery of the Royal Field Artillery and died at home on July 2nd 1916 aged 28.

Charles Campbell was the husband of Isabel Campbell of 20 Romney Street in Middlesbrough and his grave can be seen today in Linthorpe Cemetery.

Campbell, Michael.

Michael Campbell was born in Swinford, County Mayo in Ireland and enlisted for service in Doncaster.

With the 10th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, Private Campbell was killed in action on April 25th 1917 during the 2nd Battle of the Scarpe, part of the Arras offensive.

His grave can be seen today in Point-du-Jour Military Cemetery at Athies, three miles north east of Arras.

Campbell, Kenneth.

Campbell, Thomas.

Thomas Campbell was born in Stockton and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With "D" Company of the 6th battalion Yorkshire Regiment, Private Campbell was wounded during the Gallipoli campaign and evacuated to Egypt died of his injuries on November 3rd 1915 aged 37.

His grave today lies in Alexandria Chatby Military and War Memorial Cemetery on the eastern side of the city of Alexandria in Egypt.

Thomas Campbell was the son of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Campbell of Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Campling, Thomas.

Thomas Campling was born in the All Saints area of Middlesbrough and worked in his fathers newsagents before the war when he enlisted for service in Richmond.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment, Military Medal holder Sergeant Campling then transferred to the 8th battalion of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers.

He died of wounds during the Mesopotamia campaign on April 30th 1918 and his name is remembered today on the Basra Memorial situated along the road to Nasiriyah in Iraq.

Cant, J.

Joseph Cant was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 29th Divisional Ammunition Column of the Royal Field Artillery, Fitter Cant was wounded during the Salonika campaign and evacuated to Egypt died on July 21st 1915.

His grave today lies in Alexandria Chatby Military and War Memorial Cemetery on the eastern side of the city of Alexandria in Egypt.

Cape, T.

An incorrect spelling on the memorial, this man was in fact Thomas Cope, see T Cope listed later.

Capewell, Jacie.

Jack Capewell was born in Spennymoor and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Capewell was killed in action on November 6th 1918 aged 25 during the Battle of the Sambre as the battalion attacked the enemy line close to the Bavay to Montignies road.

His body lost to the battlefield his name is remembered today on the Vis-en-Artois Memorial at Haucourt, seven miles south east of Arras.

Capstick, William.

William Capstick was born at Tewkesbury in Gloucestershire, enlisted in York and lived in Middlesbrough.

With the 1st battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Capstick was killed in action aged 19 on October 16th 1916 in fighting at Trones Wood during the Battle of the Somme.

His grave can be seen today in Bancourt British Cemetery in the village of Bancourt just to the east of Bapaume.

William Capstick was the son of George Metcalfe Capstick and his wife Elizabeth of 28 Oakthwaite Road, Windermere in the Lake District.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Carey, Arthur.

Arthur Carey enlisted in Middlesbrough and lived in the Newport area of the town. With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carey was killed in action on July 15th 1916 aged 19 in fighting at Kemmel Shelters in the Ypres Salient. His grave today lies in Kemmel Chateau Military Cemetery on the northern edge of Kemmel village to the south of Ypres. Arthur Carey was the adopted son of Mrs A Ledson of 1 Old Cottages, West Lane in Middlesbrough.

Carling, J W.

John William Carling was born in North Ormesby and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 7th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carling was killed in action on July 1st 1916 at the age of 19 on the first day of the Battle of the Somme. He died with "A" company of the battalion, in an attack on the village of Fricourt at 7-45am when a single enemy machine gun virtually wiped the men out in the first twenty yards of the advance. His grave can be seen today in Fricourt British Cemetery three miles to the east of Albert. John Carling was the son of Isaac and Margaret Carling of 3 Stephenson Street in North Ormesby.

Carling, M.

I believe this to be Gordon Morris Carling who was born in South Shields and enlisted for service in Durham. With the 16th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Carling was killed in action aged 19 on July 1st 1916 in an attack on Thiepval as the Somme offensive began. His body not recovered his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial situated close to where he fell. Gordon Morris Carling was the son of Alexander H and Jennie Oliver Carling of 12 Eastbourne Grove in South Shields.

Carney, John.

John Carney enlisted for military service in Middlesbrough. With the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carney was killed in action in Italy on October 27th 1918, in fighting against the Austrians at Zandonadi, close to the River Piave. Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Giavera Memorial overlooking the Asiago Plateau in the province of Treviso.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Carr, Archibald.

Archibald Carr was born in Stockton, lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Thornaby.

Sergeant Carr served with the 18th Queen Marys Own Royal Hussars and died as a result of war related illness or accident on August 30th 1917.

His grave can be visited today in Boulogne Eastern Cemetery set on high ground overlooking the town on the French channel coast.

Carr, James.

James Carr was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town.

He originally served with the Yorkshire Regiment before transferring to the 1/5th battalion of the Lancashire Fusiliers.

Private Carr was killed in action on March 25th 1918 aged 28 at the 1st Battle of Bapaume.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Carr, A N.

Alexander Nelson Carr was born in North Shields and lived in Monkseaton, enlisting for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 3rd battalion of the Coldstream Guards, Lance Corporal Carr was killed in action on September 26th 1916 aged 26 in an attack on Lesboeufs during the Battle of the Somme.

His body lost his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing.

Carr, Reginald Anthony.

Reginald Carr was born in Linthorpe and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough in September of 1914.

With the 10th battalion of the Kings Royal Rifle Corps, Rifleman Carr was killed in action on September 3rd 1916 aged 24 in a noon attack on the village of Guillemont during the Somme offensive.

His body was lost to the battlefield and his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Reginald Anthony Carr was the son of William and the late Susannah Carr of 3 Cliffe Cottages, Acklam Road in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Carr, R H.

Private Richard Heckles Carr served with the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry and died at home due to war related illness or accident on June 5th 1917 aged 38. The husband of Mrs M A Carr of 83 Denmark Street in Middlesbrough his grave today lies in Linthorpe Cemetery.

Carr, Thomas.

Thomas Carr was born in Cowpen Bewley and lived in Port Clarence, enlisting for service in Richmond.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carr was killed in action aged 28 on October 22nd 1914 in fighting at the Nieuwe Kruseecke crossroads during the 1st Battle of Ypres.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Thomas Carr was the son of the late John and Margaret Carr.

Carr, W.

William Carr was born in North Shields and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 30th battery, 39th brigade of the Royal Field Artillery, Wheeler Carr was killed in action on November 22nd 1917 at the close of the Passchendaele offensive. His grave can be seen today in Bard Cottage Cemetery at Boesinghe just to the north of Ypres.

Carradice, James.

James Carradice was born in Dumfries and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Highland Light Infantry, Corporal Carradice was wounded in action in the Aubers Ridge sector and died of his injuries on July 10th 1915 aged 38.

His grave can be seen today in Chocques Military Cemetery, two and a half miles to the north west of Bethune.

James Carradice was the son of James and Margaret Carradice and the husband of Annie Carradice of 13 Robinson Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Carroll, Thomas.

Thomas Carroll was born and lived in Middlesbrough but enlisted for service in Stratford in Essex.

With the 2nd battalion of the Devonshire Regiment, Private Carroll was wounded at Aubers Ridge and died of his injuries on June 21st 1915 at the age of 20.

His grave today lies in Rue-du-Bacquerot, 13th London Graveyard at Laventie, four miles south west of Armentieres.

Thomas Carroll was the son of Mrs Margaret Carroll of 35 Kendal Street in Middlesbrough.

Carrigill, George.

Incorrectly named on the memorial, George James Carrigal was born in Hartlepool and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 5th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carrigal was wounded towards the end of the Passchendaele offensive and died of his injuries on December 15th 1917.

His grave can be visited today in Tyne Cot Cemetery, close to the memorial panels to the east of Ypres in Belgium.

Carroll, John.

John Carroll was born in the St Marys area of Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in Brecon in Wales.

With the 2nd battalion of the South Wales Borderers, Private Carroll was killed in action during the Gallipoli campaign at the Landings at Cape Helles on April 25th 1915 at the age of 40.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Helles Memorial on the Gallipoli peninsula.

Carruthers, Alfred James.

Alfred Carruthers enlisted in Middlesbrough but was born in Chester-Le-Street.

With the 23rd battalion of the Royal Fusiliers, Military Medal holder Private Carruthers died of wounds sustained at the 1918 Battle of Cambrai on October 8th 1918 at the age of 41.

His grave today can be seen in Delsaux Farm Cemetery at Beugny to the south west of Cambrai on the road to Bapaume.

Alfred James Carruthers was the son of John and the late Margaret Carruthers of Chester-Le-Street and the husband of Jane E Carruthers of 26 Wellesley Road in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Carter, Jim.

Double entry, see James Carter listed below.

Carter, Charles Hy.

I believe this to be Charles Arthur Carter who was born in Hartburn in Stockton and served as an officer with the 29th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry.

The holder of the Military Cross, 2nd Lieutenant Carter was killed in actions on the river Lys close to Comines on October 14th 1918 aged 37.

His grave can be visited today in Kandahar Farm Cemetery one and a half miles from Neuve-Eglise on the road to Wulverghem.

Charles Carter was the son of Alice and the late Thomas Carter of 6 Queen Anne Terrace in Hartburn.

Carter, Frank.

I believe this to be Gunner Frank Carter of the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve.

Hed died at home aged 36 on November 13th 1920 and is buried in the Prospect Cemetery in Toronto.

Frank Carter was the husband of Mrs Elizabeth Carter of 6 Springmount Avenue in Toronto.

Carter, James.

James Carter was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carter was killed in action on October 30th 1914 aged 25 during the 1st Battle of Ypres in heavy fighting at the village of Gheluvelde.

His body lost to the battlefield, his name can be seen today remembered on the Menin Gate Memorial in Ypres.

James Carter was the son of Hannah Carter and the husband of Rose Ellen West, formerly Carter of 4 Thomas Street in Middlesbrough.

Carter, Algar.

Algar Carter enlisted for service in Middlesbrough and was born in Stokesley.

With the 2nd battalion Sherwood Foresters, Notts & Derbys Regiment, Private Carter was wounded in action at the Battle of St Quentin and died of his injuries aged 19 on April 10th 1918.

His grave today lies in Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery, seven miles west of Ypres.

Algar Carter was the son of Mrs C C Carter of 29 Bright Street in Middlesbrough.

Carter, W G.

William James Carter was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town. With "C" battery of the 73rd Brigade Royal Field Artillery, Gunner Carter died of wounds on February 8th 1916 aged just 19. His grave can be visited today in Lillers Communal Cemetery just north of Lillers town and eight miles from Bethune. William Carter was the son of George and Mary Carter of 16 Charles Street in North Ormesby.

Carter, Percy.

Percy Carter enlisted for service in Middlesbrough and was born in the town. With the 5th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Carter was killed in action on April 23rd 1917 in fighting at Nepal Trench during the 2nd Battle of the Scarpe, part of the Arras offensive. His grave today lies in Cherisy Road East Cemetery at Heninel near Wancourt.

Carter, Samuel.

Samuel Carter was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Lance Corporal Carter was killed in action on September 30th 1915 aged 27 in fighting close to the Hulloch road during the Battle of Loos. Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Loos Memorial at Dud Corner Cemetery on the Bethune to Lens road. Samuel Carter was the stepson of Mrs Carter of 25 Birk Street in Middlesbrough and the husband of Eliza Baynes Carter of 5 Atkinson Street in Middlesbrough.

Cartwright, George William.

George Cartwright was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the Tank Corps. Lance Corporal Cartwright was killed in action on September 29th 1918 aged 30 in fighting close to the St Quentin canal. His grave can be visited today in Prospect Hill Cemetery at Gouy on the road between Cambrai and St Quentin. George Cartwright was the son of Mr and Mrs G Cartwright of 9 Black Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cartwright, Harry.

Henry C Cartwright enlisted in Middlesbrough but was born in Darlington. With "A" Battery, 123rd Brigade of the Royal Field Artillery, Gunner Cartwright was killed in action aged 26 on August 25th 1918 during the 2nd Battle of the Somme. His grave today can be found in Bienvillers Military Cemetery situated to the south west of the village on the road to Souastre. Harry Cartwright was the son of John and Alice Cartwright of 1 Calthorpe Street in Middlesbrough.

Cassidy, Charles.

Charles Cassidy served as a fireman aboard the Royal Fleet Auxiliary "Rapidol". He died at home due to war related illness or accident on July 15th 1918 and his grave can be seen today in North Ormesby's St Josephs Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Cassidy, Leo.

Leo Cassidy was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. He served with the 593rd Motor Transport Company of the Royal Army Service Corps and was then attached to 8th Corps heavy artillery. Lance Corporal Cassidy was killed in action on April 1st 1918 during the German spring offensive in Flanders. His grave can be seen today in Ypres Reservoir Cemetery situated in the town behind the old Ypres prison.

Cassidy, L.

Double entry, see Leo Cassidy above.

Caswell, Harry Marshall.

Harry Caswell served during the war under the surname of Marshall. With the 103rd Battery of the Royal Field Artillery, Gunner Marshall lost his life on April 28th 1915 aged 29 during the 2nd Battle of Ypres. His grave today lies in Tyne Cot Cemetery situated five miles to the north east of Ypres. Harry Marshall was the husband of Lena Bryan, formerly Caswell of 31 Teare Street in Middlesbrough.

Caswell, Marshall.

Double entry, see Harry Marshall Caswell above.

Caswell, William Robert.

Cattermole, Ernest Kirby.

Incorrectly named on the memorial, Middlesbrough born Joseph Ernest Wilby Cattermole served as an apprentice on the SS Queenswood. He died aged just 17 when the ship was captured by a German submarine and sunk by gunfire on February 16th 1917 off Hartland Point in Devon. His name is remembered today on the Tower Hill Memorial to merchant seaman in London. Joseph Cattermole was the son of Charles Preston Cattermole and Sarah Griffith Cattermole of 6 Park Road in Middlesbrough.

Cattermole, John.

Catterson, John.

John Catterson enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough. With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Catterson was killed in action on July 13th 1917 in fighting at the Hindenburg Line close to Arras. His grave can be seen today in Rookery British Cemetery at Heninel, six miles to the south east of Arras.

Catterson, John.

John Catterson was born and enlisted in Middlesbrough but lived at Grange-on-the-Green. With "W" Company of the 4th battalion Yorkshire Regiment, Private Catterson was wounded in fighting in the Arras sector and died of his injuries on August 13th 1917 at the age of 25. His grave today lies in Bucquoy Road Cemetery at Ficheux to the east of Doullens. John Catterson was the son of William and Hannah Catterson of the Fever Hospital at Blackburn in Lancashire.

Caton, John.

John Caton was born and enlisted for service in Stokesley. With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Corporal Caton was killed in action aged 30 on April 25th 1915 at the Battle of St Julien during the 2nd Ypres campaign. His body never recovered his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial in Ypres. John Caton was the husband of Hannah Eliza Caton of Garden House in Stokesley.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Caughey, John W.

John William Caughey was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 109th Heavy Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Gunner Caughey was killed in action aged 22 on May 25th 1918.

His grave can be visited today in Frehencourt Communal Cemetery, eight miles to the north east of Amiens.

John Caughey was the son of Margaret Pearson, formerly Caughey of 9 Elder Street in Middlesbrough and the late Robert Caughey.

Cave, James William.

James Cave was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Thornaby. With the 6th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cave was wounded in fighting at Hessian Trench and Stuff Redoubt during the Somme offensive and died of his wounds aged 21 on September 28th 1916.

His grave today lies in Puchevillers British Cemetery just west of the village in the department of the Somme.

James William Cave was the son of James and Kate Cave of Middlesbrough.

Chadwick, Robert.

Challenor, Ewart Oswald.

Aircraftman 2nd Class Ewart Oswald Challenor of 57th Squadron RAF died after the end of hostilities due to war related illness or accident on February 28th 1919 aged 20.

His grave can be seen today in Houyet Churchyard near to Namur in Belgium.

Ewart Challenor was Stockton born and was the son of Herbert and Edith Challenor of 2 Hartdale Terrace, Southfield Road in Middlesbrough.

Challenor, John James.

John James Challoner was born in Stockton, enlisted in Middlesbrough and lived in Consett in Co Durham.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Challoner was killed in action aged 30 on October 30th 1914 in fighting at the Nieuwe Kruseecke cross roads near Gheluveldt during the 1st Battle of Ypres.

Having no known grave, his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

John Challoner was the son of Henry Challoner and husband of Minnie Challoner of 43 Medomsley Road in Consett.

Challenor, Sidney.

Sidney Challenor was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. With the 9th battalion of the Norfolk Regiment, Private Challenor was killed in action on April 15th 1918 aged just 18 during the Battle of Bailleul. His body lost his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial to the east of Ypres in Belgium. Sidney Challenor was the son of Sidney and Eleanor Challoner of 40 Bisphopton Road in Middlesbrough.

Challis, David.

David Challis enlisted for war service in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Challis was killed in action aged 20 on July 1st 1916 during an attack on the village of Montauban where German machine guns caused over 200 casualties as the Yorkshires crossed no man's land. The grave of David Challis can be visited today in Peronne Road Cemetery at Maricourt situated between Albert and Peronne.

Chambers, David.

David Chambers served as a Trimmer aboard HMS Wallington, a depot ship of the Royal Naval Reserve. He died due to illness or accident on June 15th 1918 aged 47 and his grave today lies in Hedon Road Cemetery in Hull. He was the son of David and Catherine Chambers of Whitehaven and husband of Christina Wrathmall, formerly Chambers of 32 Salthouse Lane in Hull.

Chambers, H.

Harold Chambers was born in Ormesby and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, Private Chambers was killed in action on April 16th 1918 aged just 18 during the Battle of the Lys. Having no known grave, his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial situated on the slopes of the Passchendaele Ridge in Belgium. Harold Chambers was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Chambers of 4 Norcliffe Street in North Ormesby.

Chaplin, Harry.

Harry Chaplin was born at Middleton in Yorkshire and enlisted in Harrogate. With the 9th battalion of the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, Private Chaplin was killed in action on April 9th 1917 at the 1st Battle of the Scarpe, the opening of the Arras offensive. His grave can be seen today in Cojeul British Cemetery at St Martin-sur-Cojeul to the south east of Arras.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Chapman, Henry Theodore.

Henry Theodore Chapman was born in Grimsby and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion Cameronians, Scottish Rifles, Private Chapman was killed in action aged 24 on July 31st 1917 at the Battle of Pilckem, the opening of the Passchendaele offensive.

His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Henry Chapman was the son of Henry and Mary Chapman of 33 Westbourne Grove in North Ormesby.

Chapman, James.

James Chapman enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town.

With the 12th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Chapman died at the Battle of Loos on September 25th 1915.

He has no known grave and is remembered today on the Loos Memorial at Dud Corner Cemetery on the Bethune to Lens road.

Chapman, Robert.

Double entry, see G R Chapman listed below.

Chatton, E.

Edward William Chatton was born in Middlesbrough, enlisted in Richmond and lived in North Ormesby.

With the 1st battalion of the Leicestershire Regiment, DCM holder Lance Corporal Chatton died of wounds received in action on November 19th 1915 aged 24.

His grave can be visited today in Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery just to the south west of Poperinghe in Belgium.

Edward Chatton was the son of David Chatton of Filey Cottage, Moses Street in North Ormesby.

Chapman, G R.

George Robert Chapman was born, lived and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. Private Chapman served with the 1st battalion of the Kings Own Scottish Borderers and died at sea on August 13th 1915 aged 36.

He lost his life sailing from Egypt to Gallipoli when the troopship Royal Edward was torpedoed by U-15 close to Kandilhoussa Island in the Aegean Sea.

His name is remembered today on the Helles Memorial on the Gallipoli peninsula.

George Chapman was the husband of Mrs M A Thompson, formerly Chapman of 12 Pallows Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Charlton, Sidney.

Sydney Charlton was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Charlton died age just 19 on November 10th 1918 as a result of war related illness or accident. His grave today lies in Abbeville Communal Cemetery Extension situated north east of the town on the road to Drucat, an area where many Stationary Hospitals were based. He was the son of John Hardy Charlton and Mary Ann Charlton of Middlesbrough.

Charlton, John.

Charlesworth, John Thomas.

John Thomas Charlesworth enlisted in Middlesbrough and was born in the town. With the 14th Divisional Ammunition Column of the Royal Field Artillery, Gunner Charlesworth was killed in action aged 24 on February 24th 1917. His grave can be visited today in Agny Military Cemetery to the south of Achicourt in the Pas de Calais. John Charlesworth was the son of Margaret and the late Joseph Charlesworth of 1 Falkland Street in Middlesbrough.

Cheesebrough, Thomas M.

Ordinary Seaman Thomas M Cheesebrough served aboard HMS Fox as part of the North Russia Expeditionary Force in 1919. Seaman Cheesebrough died on July 2nd 1919 and was buried in Troitzka Churchyard but his grave now deemed not maintainable by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission he is remembered today in Archangel Allied Cemetery close to the White Sea in the north of the Russian Federation.

Chillmaid, Thomas Henry.

Thomas Henry Chillmaid was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 164th Siege Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Gunner Chillmaid was wounded during the German 1918 spring offensive and died of his wounds on May 12th 1918 aged 29. His body today lies in Pernes British Cemetery at Pernes-en-Artois. Thomas Chillmaid was the son of Henry and Eleanor Chillmaid and the husband of Alice M M Chillmaid of 2 Cliffe Cottages, Acklam Road in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Chilton, Thomas Henry.

Thomas Henry Chilton was born and enlisted to serve in Middlesbrough. With the 10th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Chilton was killed in action aged 33 on July 3rd 1916 during an attack on Shelter Wood close to Fricourt at the opening of the Somme offensive.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old Somme battleground.

Thomas Chilton was the husband of Christiana Chilton of 35 Hutchinson Street in Middlesbrough.

Christon, George Ingram.

George Ingram Christon enlisted in Middlesbrough but was born in Stockton. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment on the first day of the Battle of the Somme, Private Christon was killed in action on July 1st 1916 aged 23 crossing no man's land to attack the village of Montauban.

Originally buried in a battlefield cemetery his grave was subsequently lost and his name is remembered today on a Commonwealth War Graves Commission special memorial stone in Dantzig Alley British Cemetery at Mametz on the Somme.

George Christon was the son of Frederick and Janet Christon of 99 Victoria Road in Middlesbrough.

Clare, John George.

John George Clare was born in Yarm and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough where he worked in the ironworks.

Guardsman Clare was a member of the 5th Reserve battalion of the Grenadier Guards and died at home as a result of war related illness or accident aged 34 on September 16th 1915.

His grave can be seen today in St Josephs Roman Catholic Cemetery in North Ormesby.

Clark, Alexander Cullen.

Alexander Cullen Clark was born in South Bank and did business training at Middlesbrough High School before emigrating to Australia in 1910. Before the war he worked for the New South Wales Government Railways department in Sydney.

Enlisting into the 4th battalion of the Australian Infantry, Corporal Clark was killed in action on Gallipoli between the 6th and 9th of August 1915 at the age of 27.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Lone Pine Memorial on the road from Gaba Tepe to Chunuk Bair on the Gallipoli peninsula.

Alexander Clark was the son of William and Agnes Clark of 10 Bridgeford Terrace in South Bank and the husband of Jessie Clark of 106 Gardiners Road, Rosebury in Sydney, Australia.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Clark, G.

George Clark was living in Stokesley when he enlisted for service in York. With the amalgamated 15/17th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Corporal Clark was killed in action aged 38 on July 19th 1918. His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Ploegsteert Memorial to the south of Ypres on the road to Armentieres. George Clark was the son of Richard and Bessie Clark of Manor Cottage in Stokesley.

Clark, Herbert H.

Herbert Henry Clark enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough. With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clark was wounded in action during the Passchendaele offensive when the battalion were in the Elverdinghe sector. He died of his wounds aged 26 on November 1st 1917 and his grave can be seen today in Dozinghem Military Cemetery situated to the north west of Poperinghe. Herbert Clark was the son of Richard and Mary Ann Clark of 62 Cromwell Road in South Bank.

Clark, J.

John Clark was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clark was wounded in action during the Battle of the Somme in fighting close to Trones and Bernafay woods and died of his injuries on July 9th 1916. His body lost to the battlefield his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old battlefield.

Clark, Robert.

Lance Corporal Robert Clark was with the 1st battalion of the Black Watch, Royal Highlanders serving under the surname of McBeth. He died at home on August 7th 1916 of war related illness or injury and his grave today lies in Linthorpe Cemetery.

Clark, Thomas Henry.

Thomas Henry Clark was born in Whitby and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. Private Clark served with the 2nd battalion of the Duke of Wellington's West Riding Regiment and died in the UK due to war related illness or accident on July 19th 1917. His grave can be seen today in Holbeck Cemetery in Leeds.

Clark, Thomas Reginald.

Thomas Reginald Clark enlisted for his service in Richmond. With the 1st battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Clark was wounded during the Battles of the Scarpe, part of the Arras offensive. He died of his wounds aged 22 on April 26th 1917 and his grave today lies in Aubigny Communal Cemetery Extension, seven miles north west of Arras. Thomas Clark was the son of Thomas and Mary Jane Clark of 26 Linden Grove, Linthorpe in Middlesbrough.

Clark, Wilfrid.

Double entry, see Wilfred Clark listed later.

Clarke, Alfred Edgar.

Alfred Edgar Clarke was Master of the SS Coonagh and lost his life on March 15th 1917 at the age of 60 when his ship was sunk by an enemy submarine in the English Channel. His name is remembered today on the Tower Hill Memorial in Trinity Square close to the Tower of London. Alfred Clarke was the husband of the late Martha Clarke of 150 Marton Road in Middlesbrough.

Clarke, Ernest.

Ernest Clarke enlisted in Middlesbrough into the 5th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment. Corporal Clarke was killed in action aged 27 on April 23rd 1917 in fighting at Nepal Trench during the 2nd Battle of the Scarpe, part of the Arras offensive. Having no known grave, his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras. Ernest Clarke was the son of Arthur and Martha Clarke of 19 Victoria Road in Middlesbrough and the husband of the late Gertrude Clarke.

Clarke, H R.

Horace Reginald Clarke was born in North Ormesby and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 15th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Clarke was wounded in fighting around the St Quentin Canal and died of his injuries on October 25th 1918 aged just 19. His grave can be visited today in Vichte Military Cemetery situated in the village of Vichte, twenty miles to the east of Ypres. Horace Clarke was the son of Simeon and Sarah Jane Clarke of 6 Beaumont Road in North Ormesby.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Clarke, G F.

George Frederick Clarke was born in Gibraltar and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clarke was killed in action aged 34 on June 15th 1915 during the Battle of Givenchy. He has no known grave and is remembered today on the Le Touret Memorial situated along the road from Armentieres to Bethune. George Clarke was the husband of Mary Elizabeth Clarke of 4 Tees Street in Middlesbrough.

Clarke, Joseph William.

Joseph William Clarke was born at Over Chester in Cheshire and enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clarke was killed in action aged 25 on July 1st 1916, the first day of the Battle of the Somme as the battalion crossed no man's land to attack the village of Montauban. His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered on the Thiepval Memorial set high above the old battleground.

Clarke, Robert Richard.

Robert Richard Clarke was born in Lowestoft in Suffolk. Serving as 1st Mate aboard the SS Strathcona he lost his life on April 13th 1917 aged 55 when the ship was captured and sunk north west of Ronaldshay off the Orkney Islands. His name is remembered today on the Tower Hill Memorial in Trinity Square close to the Tower of London. Robert Clarke was the son of the late James Albert and Eliza Clarke and husband of Ada Phoebe Clarke, nee Stone of 37 Warwick Street in Middlesbrough.

Clarke, W.

William Clarke was born in York, enlisted in Stockton and lived in North Ormesby. With the 5th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Corporal Clarke was killed in action on September 17th 1916 in an attack on Prue and Starfish Trenches close to the Bazentin woods on the Somme. Having no known grave he is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Clark, Wilfred.

Wilfred Clark was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Stockton. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Company Sergeant Major Clark was killed in action on October 1st 1915 in fighting close to Hulloch during the Battle of Loos. His grave today can be seen in Vermelles British Cemetery situated six miles to the north west of Lens.

Clarke, William.

Double entry, see William Clark listed earlier.

Clarkson, A R.

Arthur Clarkson was born in Leeds and enlisted in the city.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clarkson was wounded in fighting close to Sailly-sur-Lys during the Battles of the Lys and died of his injuries on April 10th 1918 aged just 18.

His grave can be seen today in La Kreule Military Cemetery situated in the village, one mile north of Hazebrouck.

Arthur Clarkson was the son of Robert John and Ann Clarkson of Leeds.

Clay, Thomas Henry.

Thomas Henry Clay was born in Stockton and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment, he then transferred to the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Clay died during the Battle of the Selle on October 16th 1918 at the age of 30. His grave today lies in Erquelines Communal Cemetery, fourteen miles south east of Mons in Belgium.

Thomas Clay was the husband of Jessie R Clay of 14 Severn Street in Middlesbrough.

Clay, James.

James Clay was born and lived in Cargo Fleet and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Clay was wounded in action close to the village of Hancourt and died of his wounds on March 24th 1918 aged 19. His grave lies in Rosieres British Cemetery at Vauvillers, twenty miles east of Amiens. James Clay was the son of James and Mary Clay of 6 Chester Street in Cargo Fleet.

Clay, Wilson.

Wilson Clay was born and enlisted for service in Bradford.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment, he then transferred to the 2nd battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Clay was wounded at the "Actions at Villers Bretonneux" and died of his injuries on April 24th 1918 aged 24.

His grave can be visited today in Picquigny British Cemetery in the village of that name to the north west of Amiens.

Wilson Clay was the husband of Jane Ann Clay of 8 Dean Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cleaver, Charles.

Charles Cleaver was born in Guisborough, lived in Grangetown and enlisted for service in Saltburn.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cleaver was killed in action aged 28 on September 15th 1916 during the Somme offensive in an attack between High Wood and Martinpuich.

His grave can be seen today in Adanac Military Cemetery at Miraumont on the road to Courcellette.

Charles Cleaver was the brother of Mr H Cleaver of 6 Marton Burn Road, Grove Hill in Middlesbrough.

Cleavland, Michael.

Incorrectly spelled out on the memorial, Michael Cleveland was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 10th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cleveland was wounded in action in the Epinette Salient south of Ypres and died of his wounds aged 28 on December 8th 1915.

His grave today lies in Cite Bonjean Military Cemetery on the western outskirts of Armentieres.

Clinton, David.

Another incorrectly named on the memorial, David Clinton enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough where before the war he was a horse driver.

With the 7th battalion of the Gloucestershire Regiment in Mesopotamia, Private Clinton died of wounds received in action on December 16th 1916 aged 31.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Basra Memorial situated along the road to Nasiryah in Iraq.

Close, T W.

Thomas William Close was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Close was killed in action on July 10th 1916 aged 25 during the Battle of the Somme in a late afternoon attack on the village of Contalmaison.

Having no known grave he is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Thomas Close was the stepson of Emma Close and the late Thomas W Close of 72 Stour Street in North Ormesby.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Clough, William.

William Clough was born in Normanby but lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

With the 1st battalion of the Kings Own Scottish Borderers, Private Clough was killed in action on July 1st 1916 in an advance on Beaumont Hamel during the Battle of the Somme.

He has no known grave and is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old Somme battleground.

Clough, John James.

John James Clough was born and lived in Carlin How and enlisted in Loftus.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 7/8th battalion of the Kings Own Scottish Borderers.

Corporal Clough was killed in action on July 23rd 1918 at the Battle of the Soissonais and of the Ourcq.

His body lost he is remembered today in the town of Soissons in France on the Soissons Memorial.

Coates, Charles.

Charles Coates was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

With the 7th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Coates was killed in action on June 16th 1916 aged 32 in trenches to the south of Fricourt just before the Battle of the Somme opened.

His grave can be visited today in Point 110 New Military Cemetery situated just to the south of Fricourt village.

Charles Coates was the son of Robert and Ann Coates of Middlesbrough.

Coates, Frederick.

Frederick Coates enlisted in Middlesbrough into the Yorkshire Regiment and was then transferred over to the Machine Gun Corps.

Private Coates died on August 10th 1918 aged 26 while I believe a prisoner of war. His grave today lies in Glageon Communal Cemetery just to the south east of Avesnes.

Frederick Coates was the son of William and Hannah Coates of 10 Palm Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Coates, Patrick.

Patrick Coates was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Coates was killed in action aged 28 on September 26th 1915 in fighting close to Hulloch during the Battle of Loos.

His body not recovered he is remembered today on the Loos Memorial at Dud Corner Cemetery on the Bethune to Lens road.

Patrick Coates was the son of Samuel and Mary Coates of 79 Duncombe Street in Middlesbrough.

Coates, Samuel.

Ordinary Seaman Samuel Coates served with HMS Victory, a naval shore establishment in Portsmouth

He died at home due to war related illness or accident on November 24th 1918 and his grave can be seen today in Linthorpe Cemetery in Middlesbrough.

Coates, Samuel.

Double entry, see below.

Coates, Samuel.

Samuel Coates was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 12th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, Private Coates died of wounds received in action on August 25th 1917 at the age of 31.

His grave can be seen today in Aubigny Communal Cemetery Extension just to the east of St Pol.

Samuel Coates was the husband of Mary Ellen Coates of 6 Duncombe Street in Middlesbrough.

Cobbald, G.

Double entry, see below.

Cobbald, George Robert.

George Robert Cobbald was born at Great Barton in Suffolk and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 2nd battalion of the Suffolk Regiment, Private Cobbald was wounded in action in fighting close to Kemmel just after the 1st Battle of Ypres.

He died of his wounds aged 35 on December 30th 1914 and today lies in Bailleul Communal Cemetery situated on the eastern edge of the town.

George Cobbald was the husband of Susan Cobbald of 98 Monkland Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cockburn, John William.

Coggins, T.

Thomas Coggins was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Barnard Castle. Originally with the Durham Light Infantry he then transferred to the 2/7th battalion of the Manchester Regiment.

Private Coggins was killed in action on March 21st 1918 at the age of 32 during the Battle of St Quentin.

His body was not recovered and his name is remembered today on the Pozieres Memorial on the road between Bapaume and Albert..

Thomas Coggins was the son of Bernard Coggins of 11 Suffield Street in Middlesbrough.

Colbeck, Harry M.

Private Harry Colbeck served with the 2nd battalion of the Grenadier Guards and was killed in action on September 15th 1916.

He died during an attack towards Lesboeufs, close to the road to Ginchy, during the Battle of the Somme.

His grave today lies close to where he fell in Delville Wood Cemetery at Longueval on the road to Ginchy.

Colbeck, Charles Bailes.

Charles Bailes Colbeck was born and enlisted in Thornaby and lived at Trimdon Grange in Co Durham.

With the 235th Army Troops Company of the Royal Engineers, Corporal Colbeck was killed in action aged 27 on August 1st 1917 at the Battle of Pilckem.

His grave can be visited today in Birr Cross Roads Cemetery at Zillebeke, along the Menin Road to the east of Ypres.

Colbeck, Harold.

I believe this to be Harry M Colbeck listed above.

Colbeck, J R.

Joseph Colbeck was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

With the 9th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Colbeck was wounded in action assaulting the village of Contalmaison during the Battle of the Somme.

He died of his wounds aged just 19 on July 11th 1916 and today lies in Warloy-Bailon Communal Cemetery Extension to the west of Albert.

Joseph Colbeck was the son of Thomas and the late Margaret A Colbeck of Middlesbrough.

Cole, James Lambert.

James Lambert Cole was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. Serving with the 2nd Special Brigade of the Royal Engineers, Corporal Cole was killed in action on June 28th 1916 just prior to the opening of the Somme offensive. His grave can be visited today in Tranchee de Mecknes Cemetery at Aix-Noulette, eight miles north of Arras on the road to Bethune.

Cole, James.

Double entry, see James Lambert Cole listed above.

Cole, Joseph Victor.

Joseph Victor Cole was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in Morley near Leeds.

With the 2/4th battalion of the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, Private Cole was killed in action aged 21 on August 27th 1918 during the 2nd Battle of Bapaume.

His grave today lies in L'Homme Mort British Cemetery at Ecoust-St Mein, five miles north east of Bapaume.

Joseph Cole was the son of James William and the late Susannah Bethia Cole of 4 Smith Street in Middlesbrough.

Cole, Percy Alfred.

Coleman, Charles W.

Coleman, James.

James Coleman was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for his war service in the town.

With the 13th battalion of the Kings Royal Rifle Corps, Rifleman Coleman was killed in action on May 28th 1916.

His grave can be visited today in Berles-au-Bois Churchyard Extension situated eight miles south west of Arras.

Coleman, Peter.

Peter Coleman was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Richmond.

With the 24th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Tyneside Irish, Private Coleman was killed in action on July 1st 1916 aged just 19.

He died as the battalion advanced from the Tara-Usna Line towards the village of La Boiselle on the opening day of the Battle of the Somme.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Peter Coleman was the son of James and Mary Coleman of 3 Gloucester Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Colley, George.

George Colley was born and enlisted for war service in Middlesbrough. With the 6th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Colley was wounded in action in an attack on Turk Street and the Wonderwork during the Battle of the Somme and died of his injuries aged 24 on September 15th 1916. His grave today lies in Warloy-Baillon Communal Cemetery Extension situated twelve miles north east of Amiens.

Collins, Andrew.

Andrew Collins was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Collins died due to war related illness or accident on Decemebr 20th 1914 at the age of 20. His grave today lies in Wimereux Communal Cemetery situated three miles north of Boulogne on the French channel coast where many Base Hospitals were located. Andrew Collins was the son of Mary Ann Collins of 10 London Street in Middlesbrough.

Collins, John George.

John George Collins was born in Sunderland and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Collins was wounded in action during the Passchendaele offensive and died of his wounds on December 24th 1917 aged 27. His grave today lies in Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery, seven miles to the west of Ypres in Belgium. John Collins was the son of John Raine Collins and Elizabeth Collins of 111 Crescent Road in Middlesbrough.

Collinson, William.

William Collinson was born at Thornton-le-Moor near Northallerton and enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough. With the 9th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Collinson was wounded in fighting in the Bois Grenier sector south of Armentieres and died of his wounds on October 16th 1915 at the age of 20. His grave can be seen today in Erquinghem-Lys Churchyard Extension, three quarters of a mile west of Armentieres. William Collinson was the son of Walter and Hilda Collinson of 20 Harford Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Collinson, Frederick George.

Like his brother William listed above, Frederick George Collinson was also born at Thornton-le-Moor and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 9th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Corporal Collinson was killed in action on June 7th 1917 aged 23 at the Battle of Messines in fighting close to Battle Wood.

Having no known grave, his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Mr and Mrs Collinson of Harford Street had lost two sons in just over a year and a half.

Colpitts, Tom.

Tom Colpitts was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town.

With "A" battery of the 47th Brigade Royal Field Artillery, Sergeant Colpitts was killed in action aged 26 on April 10th 1917 during the Arras offensive.

His grave can be visited today in Achicourt Road Cemetery situated one mile south of Arras on the road to Amiens.

Tom Colpitts was the son of Eliza and the late Thomas Colpitts of 76 Glebe Road in Middlesbrough.

Comer, John Hubert.

John Hubert Comer was born in Torquay, enlisted in Stockton and lived in Middlesbrough.

He served under the name of Harold Spencer with the 2nd battalion of the Royal Warwickshire Regiment.

Corporal Spencer died aged 32 on November 3rd 1918 in No 29 Stationary Hospital in Cremona in Italy and his grave today lies in Cremona Town Cemetery.

He was the son of Levi and Ann Comer of Charles Street Coal Depot in Middlesbrough.

Connar, Joseph.

Double entry, see Joseph Connor listed later.

Connelly, Ernest.

Connlin, John.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Conning, Walter.

Walter Conning was born and enlisted for war service in Middlesbrough. With the 7th battalion of the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, Private Conning was wounded during the Battle of Langemark, part of the Passchendaele offensive and died of his injuries on September 11th 1917. His grave can be seen today in Canada Farm Cemetery situated five miles north west of Ypres in Belgium.

Connoly, D.

David Connelly enlisted for war service in Middlesbrough. With the 10th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Connelly was killed in action aged just 18 on October 4th 1917 in fighting close to Polygon Wood during the Passchendaele offensive. His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial set close to the Passchendaele Ridge.

Connolly, John Patrick.

John Patrick Connolly was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Connolly was killed in action on July 8th 1916 in an attack on Bernafay Wood during the Battle of the Somme. Having no known grave, his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Connor, Joseph.

Joseph Connor enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Connor was killed in action on September 9th 1916 in fighting close to the village of Gorre. His grave can be seen today in Gorre British and Indian Cemetery situated two miles east of Bethune. Joseph Connor was the husband of Mary Connor of 16 Italy Street in Middlesbrough.

Conoly, Peter.

Peter Conolly was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 14th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry during the Battle of the Somme, Private Conolly was killed in action on October 12th 1916 during an attack on Rainbow and Shine trenches close to Gueudecourt. Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old battleground.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Conroy, John.

John Conroy enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Conroy was killed in action on April 23rd 1917 during the Arras offensive in fighting on the high ground west of Cherisy.

His body lost his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Constantine, R Norman.

Middlesbrough man Herbert Norman Constantine was born in the town in 1892 and attended Clare College at Cambridge before the war.

He joined the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment in the Ypres area in 1915 and was gassed and wounded in action in May of that year. He was with the battalion at the Actions at the Bluff in early 1916 and in September of that year took part in the Somme offensive.

1917 saw the battalion at the Arras battles and in the autumn involved in the Passchendaele offensive. Captain Constantine fought during the German Spring Offensive in 1918 and also at the Battle of the Lys. After these actions the battalion were moved down to positions near Craonelle on the Chemin des Dames Ridge. Here on May 27th 1918 the Germans launched a surprise attack and the 4th Yorkshires suffered grievous losses including Captain Constantine who was killed in this action at the age of 26.

His grave lies in La Ville Aux Bois British Cemetery on the Aisne just north of Reims. Captain Herbert Norman Constantine MC was the son of Mr J and Mrs M L Constantine of Harlsey Hall near Northallerton in North Yorkshire. He was also named on a memorial in the reading room of the Cleveland Club in Middlesbrough.

Conway, Matthew.

Matthew Conway was born and enlisted in Middlesbrough and lived in Ludden Foot near Halifax.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Conway was killed in action on March 12th 1915 at the Battle of Neuve Chapelle.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Le Touret Memorial situated four and a half miles north east of Bethune.

Conway, Michael.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Conyard, William.

William Conyard enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town.

Originally with the 22nd battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 731st company of the Labour Corps.

Private Conyard was killed in action aged 24 at the end of the Passchendaele offensive on November 11th 1917 and his grave today lies in La Brique Military Cemetery No 2 situated two miles north east of Ypres on the road to Langemarck.

Cook, Arthur.

Arthur Cook was born in Middlesbrough on October 22nd 1889 and worked as an iron founder before emigrating to Canada.

He joined the Canadian infantry on October 24th 1914 in Montreal and served with the 24th battalion of the Quebec Regiment.

Corporal Cook died on January 31st 1916 aged 27 and his grave can be seen today in Bailleul Communal Cemetery Extension situated on the eastern outskirts of the town.

Arthur Cook was the son of Mrs J Cook of 19 Wellesley Road in Middlesbrough.

Cook, Arthur William.

Arthur William Cook was born in Redcar but lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town.

With the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cook was killed in action on September 16th 1916 aged 35 in an early morning attack on Gueudecourt during the Battle of the Somme.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing.

Arthur Cook was the husband of Mary Honor Cook of 128 Essex Street in Middlesbrough.

Cook, F.

Double entry, see below.

Cook, Fred.

Fred Cooke was born in South Bank and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 10th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Cooke was killed in action on July 31st 1915 in fighting on the Menin Road at Hooge to the east of Ypres.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cook, Henry.

Henry Cook was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. He served with the Teesside Pioneers, the 12th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment. Sergeant Cook died of wounds on January 9th 1917 aged 23 while the battalion were engaged in road works in the Maurepas area. His grave today lies in Grove Town Cemetery situated one and a half miles south of Meaulte on the road to Bray-sur-Somme. Henry Cook was the son of Alice Ann Cook of Middlesbrough.

Cook, J P.

John Pickering Cook was born at Newton-upon-Rawcliffe but lived and enlisted in Middlesbrough. Originally with the East Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 1st battalion of the Royal Munster Fusiliers. Private Cook was killed in action aged 23 on March 21st 1918 in fighting during the Battle of St Quentin. His body not recovered his name is remembered today on the Pozieres Memorial on the road between Albert and Bapaume. John Cook was the son of Thomas Cook of Broxa, Hackness near Scarborough.

Cook, Thomas.

Thomas Cook was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With "B" company of the 2nd battalion Durham Light Infantry, Private Cook was wounded in action during the August Advance in Flanders and died of his wounds on August 12th 1918 aged just 19. His grave can be seen today in Terlincthun British Cemetery at Wimille, two miles north of Boulogne on the French channel coast. Thomas Cook was the son of Thomas and Eliza Cook of 14 Park Street in Middlesbrough.

Cook, Thomas.

Thomas Cook was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in West Hartlepool. With the 13th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Cook was killed in action on September 23rd 1917 aged 21 during the Battle of the Menin Road, part of the Passchendaele offensive. His body lost to the battlefield his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial set close to the Passchendaele Ridge. Thomas Cook was the son of Mrs Mary Ellen Cobby of 39 Graham Street in Middlesbrough.

Cook, W James.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cooke, Herbert.

Herbert Cooke was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Sergeant Cooke was killed in action on May 24th 1915 aged 25 in trenches astride the Menin Road at Hooze during the Whit Monday German gas attack.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Coombs, Robert.

Gunner Robert Coombs served with the 166th Siege Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery.

He was wounded in action during the Battle of Arras and died of his injuries on April 8th 1917 at the age of 21.

His grave can be visited today in Warlincourt Halte British Cemetery at Saulty on the northern side of the Arras to Doullens road.

Robert Coombs who was Middlesbrough born was the son of Jonathon and Margaret Jane Coombs of 10 Richmond Street in Middlesbrough.

Cooney, F.

Frank Cooney was born in Workington, lived in North Ormesby and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough where he worked as a labourer in the ironworks.

With the 7th battalion of the Border Regiment, Private Cooney was killed in action aged 40 on February 15th 1916, during the Actions of the Bluff to the south east of Ypres.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Frank Cooney was the father of Valentine Cooney of 2 Beech Grove in Harrogate.

Cooper, A E.

Albert Edward Cooper was born in Sheffield and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Private Cooper was killed in action on December 6th 1917 during the Battle of Cambrai serving with either the 12th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment or the 12th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, his name being attributed to both regiments.

Albert Cooper's grave can be seen today in St Leger British Cemetery situated eight miles south of Arras.

Cooper, Charles H.

Cooper, Frederick Henry.

Frederick Henry Cooper was born at Milham in Co Durham and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment he was wounded and taken prisoner by the Germans in the summer of 1918.

Private Cooper died of his wounds in enemy hands on October 8th 1918 and today lies in Glageon Communal Cemetery Extension situated eight miles south east of Avesnes.

Cooper, F W.

I believe this to be Lieutenant Frederick William Cooper MC of the 105th Field Company of the Royal Engineers.

Lt Cooper died aged 26 on April 17th 1918 during the Battles of the Lys and having no known grave is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial to the east of Ypres.

Frederick Cooper was the son of Mrs Stanley Scott, formerly Cooper of Bank House, Cockermouth and the late Frederick Ashley Cooper.

Cooper, John Richard.

John Richard Cooper enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough.

With the 5th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cooper was killed in action on September 26th 1916 in operations at Eaucourt L'Abbaye during the Battle of the Somme.

John Cooper has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing.

Cooper, Walter Kenneth.

Walter Kenneth Cooper was born in South Bank and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 2/4th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, Private Cooper died of wounds sustained during the Battle of the Sambre on November 5th 1918.

His grave can be seen today in Awoingt British Cemetery, two miles to the south east of Cambrai.

Walter Cooper was the husband of Mrs F B Cooper of 77 Church Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cooperthwaite, William.

William Walter Cooperthwaite was born, lived and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Gunner Cooperthwaite served with the 50th Trench Mortar Battery of the Royal Field Artillery and taken as a prisoner of war died in enemy hands on October 10th 1918 at the age of 33.

His grave today lies in Niedierzwehren Cemetery situated six miles south of Kassel in Germany.

William Cooperthwaite was the son of Henry and Jane Cooperthwaite of 15 Birke Street in Middlesbrough.

Cope, Albert.

Albert Cope was born and lived in North Ormesby and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cope was killed in action aged 25 on July 11th 1916 in the battalion's attack on the village of Contalmaison during the Battle of the Somme.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Albert Cope was the brother of Mrs L Dawson of 25 Morris Street in North Ormesby.

Cope, Thomas.

Thomas Cope enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cope was killed in action aged 42 on April 23rd 1917 in the battalion's attack on the high ground to the west of Cherisy during the 2nd Battle of the Scarpe, Arras offensive.

His grave can be visited today in Wancourt British Cemetery to the south east of Arras on the road to Cambrai.

Thomas Cope was the husband of Martha Cope of 31 Lord Street in Middlesbrough.

Copeland, John James.

John James Copeland enlisted for his war service in Middlesbrough.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Copeland was killed in action on May 8th 1918 while the battalion were holding the line at Voormezele to the south of Ypres in Belgium.

Having no known grave, John Copeland's name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial situated close to the Passchendaele Ridge.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cornfield, Levi.

Levi Cornfield was born in Birmingham and enlisted in Middlesbrough. With "D" Battery, 117th Brigade of the Royal Field Artillery, Gunner Cornfield was killed in action on September 20th 1918 aged 26 during the Battles of the Hindenburg Line.

His grave can be seen today in Ste Emilie Valley Cemetery at Villers-Faucon on the road from Ste Emilie to Roisel.

Levi Cornfield was the son of Mrs A L Lawrence of 212 Cannon Street in Middlesbrough.

Cornesky, John William.

Incorrectly named on the memorial, John William Comasky was born in New Marske and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 1/4th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, Private Comasky was killed in action aged 30 on October 9th 1917 during the Battle of Poelcapelle.

He has no known grave and is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial to the east of Ypres in Belgium.

John Comasky was the son of Michael and Jane Comasky of 77 Westward Street in Middlesbrough.

Corrighan, J.

James Corrigan was born in South Bank and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 10th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Corrigan died on September 25th 1916 when the battalion were at Martinpuich during the Somme offensive.

His grave can be visited today in Adanac Military Cemetery at Miraumont on the road to Courcelette.

Cosgrove, Charles Septimus.

Charles Septimus Cosgrove was born in Wallsend but lived and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough where he was a local organist and music teacher.

Originally with the Northumberland Fusiliers he then transferred over to the Royal West Kent Regiment.

Private Cosgrove was killed in action aged 38 on September 21st 1917 during the Battle of the Menin Road.

His grave today lies in Hooze Crater Cemetery situated two and a half miles along the Menin Road from Ypres.

Charles Cosgrove was the son of John and Emily Cosgrove of Middlesbrough and the husband of Amy Bertha Cosgrove of 128 Clarendon Road in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cossey, John William.

John William Cossey was born at Westerton in Co Durham and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

With the 3rd battalion of the Grenadier Guards, Guardsman Cossey was killed in action on July 24th 1917 aged 28 just prior to the Passchendaele Offensive.

His grave today lies in Bleuets Farm Cemetery at Elverdinghe just to the north west of Ypres in Belgium.

John Cossey was the son of Janet Atkinson, formerly Cossey of 68 Lord Street in Middlesbrough and the late Mr W Cossey.

Costello, John James.

John James Costello was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Richmond.

Serving with the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Costello was killed in action aged 20 on June 15th 1915 during a 6-00am attack at the Battle of Givenchy.

His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Le Touret Memorial situated four and a half miles north east of Bethune.

John Costello was the son of George and Esther Costello of 46 Parliament Road in Middlesbrough.

Cotton, Harry.

Harry Cotton was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

With the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cotton was wounded in action at the 2nd Battle of Kemmel and died of his injuries on April 28th 1918 at the age of 25.

His grave can be seen today in Boulogne Eastern Cemetery situated on the high ground overlooking the port.

Harry Cotton was the son of Elizabeth and the late Harry Cotton of 34 Oak Street in Middlesbrough.

Cottrell, Robert Norman.

Robert Norman Cottrell was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 7th battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Cottrell was killed in action aged 20 on August 16th 1918 during the 2nd Battles of the Somme.

He lies today in Heath Cemetery at Harbonnieres to the east of Villers-Bretonneux.

Robert Cottrell was the son of Wilhelmina and the late Robert Cottrell of 16 Gifford Street in Middlesbrough.

Cottrill, R N.

Double entry, see above.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Coulton, Francis.

Francis Coulton was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted at Cargo Fleet. With the home based 3rd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Coulton died at home due to illness or accident on March 11th 1917 at the age of 30. Francis Coulton was the son of Francis W and Jane A Coulton of 13 Orwell Street in Middlesbrough and his grave today lies in Linthorpe Cemetery.

Coupland, Joseph.

Joseph Coupland was born in Thornaby and enlisted in Middlesbrough. He originally served with the Yorkshire Regiment before transferring over to the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment. Lance Sergeant Coupland was killed in action on October 4th 1917 aged 23 during the Battle of Broodseinde. His body not recovered his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial set close to the Passchendaele Ridge. Joseph Coupland was the son of the late William and Isobel Coupland.

Cousins, A.

Alexander Cousins enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town. Serving with the 5th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cousins was killed in action on March 28th 1918 aged 30 during the Actions at the Somme Crossings. Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Pozieres Memorial situated along the road from Bapaume to Albert.

Covell, Walter Frederick.

Covell, William Henry.

William Henry Covell was born at Ardsley near Leeds and enlisted in the city. With the 9th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Covell was killed in action on September 27th 1916 during the battalion's attack on Hessian Trench from the area of Mouquet Farm as part of the Somme offensive. Having no known grave William Covell is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old Somme battlefields.

Coverdale, Isaac.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Coverdale, George.

George Coverdale was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in Newcastle.

Serving with the 2nd battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Coverdale was killed in action aged 23 on March 21st 1918 during the Battle of St Quentin.

His grave today lies in Vaulx Hill Cemetery at Vaulx-Vraucourt, four miles north east of Bapaume.

George Coverdale was the son of George and Jane Coverdale.

Coverdale, Thomas.

Thomas Coverdale was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in the town. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Coverdale was killed in action on June 15th 1915 aged 23 during the battalion's 6-00am attack at the Battle of Givenchy.

His body not recovered his name is remembered today on the Le Touret Memorial, four and a half miles north east of Bethune.

Thomas Coverdale was the son of the late Thomas and Lilian Coverdale of 93 Hunter Street in Middlesbrough and the husband of Margaret Ann Wilkinson, formerly Coverdale of 16 Lawson Street in Middlesbrough.

Coward, John William.

John William Coward lived in Leeds and enlisted in the city.

Serving with the Leeds Rifles, the 1/8th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Coward was killed in action on September 3rd 1916 at the age of 20.

He died in a 5-10pm attack between Aveluy Wood and Thiepval during the Battle of the Somme.

John Coward has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial situated close to where he fell.

Cowens, J W.

J W Cowan was born in Gateshead and enlisted in West Hartlepool.

Serving with the 15th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cowan was wounded in action and passed through the casualty clearing chain back to England.

J W Cowan died of his wounds at home on May 13th 1918 and his grave can be seen today in Linthorpe Cemetery.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cowper, George Barritt.

George Barrett Cowper was born in Darlington on July 29th 1871.

He emigrated to Canada where he worked as an accountant and with his wife lived in Winnipeg.

He attested into the Canadian forces on March 7th 1916 and served as a private with the 12th battalion of the Canadian Railway Troops.

Private Cowper died at home due to war related illness or accident on January 10th 1918 at the age of 47 and his grave today lies in Linthorpe Cemetery.

George Cowper was the son of the late W H Cowper JP and his wife Eleanor of Middlesbrough and husband of Katie Cowper of "Hastingleigh" 20 Grange Road in Southport, his wife having returned to England from Canada.

Cowperthwaite, Stanley.

Stanley Cowperthwaite was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 7th battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Cowperthwaite was killed in action aged 19 on May 12th 1917 during the Capture of Roeux, part of the Arras offensive.

Having no known grave he is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Cox, John Frederick.

Double entry, see John Cox listed below.

Cox, John Foster.

John Foster Cox was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

Serving with the 1/4th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Private Cox died on May 27th 1918 aged just 18 during the Battle of the Aisne.

His body lost he is remembered today on the Soissons Memorial situated in the town of Soissons east of the river Aisne.

John Cox was the son of Mr and Mrs J Cox of 8 Benson Street, Linthorpe in Middlesbrough.

Cox, John.

John Cox was born at Haddington in Scotland and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 1/4th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment.

Private Cox was killed in action aged 32 on October 9th 1917 during the Battle of Poelcapelle.

He has no known grave and is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial set close to the Passchendaele Ridge.

John Cox was the son of James and Ellen Cox of 3 Unthank Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cox, R.

Richard Cox was born in North Ormesby, lived at Cargo Fleet and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cox was killed in action on April 2nd 1917 aged 33 in an early morning attack on the village of Henin-sur-Cojeul. His grave can be seen today in Henin Crucifix Cemetery situated five miles to the south east of Arras.

Richard Cox was the son of Mrs Deborah Oughton of 37 Dover Street in Cargo Fleet.

Cox, Thomas Richard.

Thomas Richard Cox was born, lived and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 1st battalion of the Kings Own Scottish Borderers, Private Cox died at sea on August 13th 1915 aged 29.

He died as the troopship Royal Edward sailing from Egypt to Gallipoli was torpedoed by U-15 in the Aegean Sea.

His name is remembered today on the Helles Memorial on the Gallipoli peninsula.

Thomas Cox was the son of Mrs Isobel Cox of 31 Johnson Street in Middlesbrough and the husband of Louisa Nozedar, formerly Cox of 5 Gough Street in Middlesbrough.

Cox, Thomas William.

Thomas William Cox was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Northallerton.

Serving with the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cox was killed in action on May 24th 1915 during a German gas attack on the battalion's line at Hooge to the east of Ypres.

Thomas Cox has no known grave and is remembered today on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Cox, T.

Double entry, I believe this is Thomas William or Thomas Richard listed above.

Cox, William.

William Cox, the brother of John listed earlier was born in Edinburgh but lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in the town.

With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cox was wounded in action at the Battle of Givenchy and died of his wounds on June 19th 1915 aged 20.

His grave can be visited today in Lillers Communal Cemetery situated just north of the town on the road to St Venant.

William Cox was the son of James and Ellen Cox of 3 Unthank Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Coxon, Albert Ernest.

Albert Ernest Coxon was born at Stillington in Co Durham and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Serving with the 10th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Corporal Coxon was killed in action on April 11th 1917 aged 38 in the front line south east of Henin-sur-Cojeul during an attack on the Hindenburg Line.

His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Albert Coxon was the husband of Emma C Coxon of "Wave Crest" Shipley Terrace in Marske.

Coyne, Michael.

Michael Coyne was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 11th battalion of the East Lancashire Regiment, Private Coyne was wounded in action and died of his injuries on February 3rd 1918 at the age of 20.

His grave can be seen today in Anzin St Aubin British Cemetery, three miles to the north west of Arras.

Michael Coyne was the son of Peter and Elizabeth Coyne of 34 Westward Street in Middlesbrough.

Crabtree, George William.

George William Crabtree was born and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

Serving with the 6th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Crabtree was killed in action on January 17th 1917 while the battalion were positioned in the north of the Somme battleground.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set high above the old battlefield.

Craddy, John.

Trimmer John Craddy served with HMS Pekin, the Grimsby wartime shore base formed to make use of the skills of the trawlermen.

John Craddy died due to war related illness or accident on May 2nd 1916 and his grave today lies in Grimsby's Scartho Road Cemetery.

Craggs, Stanley.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Craggy, Robert.

Robert Craggy was born in Stockton, lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted in Richmond.

Serving with the 23rd battalion of the Middlesex Regiment, Private Craggy was wounded and captured by the Germans during the Advance in Flanders and died in enemy hands on September 15th 1918 at the age of 34.

His grave can be visited today in Valenciennes Communal Cemetery situated just to the north east of the town.

Craig, Thomas Aloysius.

Thomas Aloysius Craig was born in the St Marys district of Manchester and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Originally with the Lincolnshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 45th Company of the Machine Gun Corps.

Sergeant Craig was killed in action during the Somme offensive on September 15th 1916 at the age of 43.

His body lost he is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial.

Thomas Craig was the husband of Sarah Ann McGuinness, formerly Craig of 28 Abingdon Road in Middlesbrough.

Craig, T.

Double entry, see above.

Crawford, Robert Henry.

Robert Henry Crawford was born in Middlesbrough and enlisted in York.

Serving with the 17th battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, NER Pioneers, Private Crawford died on June 14th 1918 as a result of illness or accident.

His grave today lies in Terlincthun British Cemetery at Wimille just north of Boulogne on the French channel coast where many base hospitals were located.

Robert Crawford was the son of Maria and the late John Crawford of Middlesbrough.

Creasor, William.

William Creasor enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 9th battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment.

Private Creasor was wounded in an attack on Le Sars during the Somme offensive and died of his wounds on October 12th 1916 aged 23.

His grave can be visited today in St Sever Cemetery at Rouen, the cemetery being two miles south of the city.

William Creasor was the son of Harry and Jemima Creasor of 8 Head Street in Middlesbrough and was the brother of George listed below.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Creasor, George.

George Creasor was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. He served with "A" Battery, 75th Brigade, Army Refitting Camp of the Royal Field Artillery.

Gunner Creasor died as a result of war related illness or accident on August 14th 1918 aged 23.

His grave today lies in Bailleul Communal Cemetery Extension situated on the eastern outskirts of the town.

George Creasor was the son of Harry and Jemima Creasor of 8 Head Street in Middlesbrough.

Creasor, Harold.

Harold Creasor enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 21st Company of the Machine Gun Corps.

Private Creasor was killed in action on March 21st 1918 aged just 19 during the Battle of St Quentin.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Pozieres Memorial situated along the road from Albert to Bapaume.

Harold Creasor was the son of Robet and Anne B Creasor of 47 Gresham Road in Middlesbrough.

Creasor, H.

Double entry, see Harold Creasor above.

Cregan, Joseph.

Joseph Cregan was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cregan was killed in action on July 10th 1916 at the age of 28.

He lost his life in the battalion's 4-50pm attack from Horseshoe Trench towards the village of Contalmaison during the Battle of the Somme.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set above the old Somme battlefield.

Joseph Cregan was the son of Mrs Sarah Dorothy Cregan of 10 Italy Street in Middlesbrough.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Crawford, H.

Henry Crawford was born in South Shields and enlisted in Middlesbrough. Originally with the West Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred to the 21st battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers, Tyneside Scottish.

Private Crawford was wounded in action during the Somme offensive and died of his wounds on September 28th 1916 at the age of 41.

His grave can be seen today in Trois Arbres Cemetery at Steenwerck to the west of Armentieres.

Henry Crawford was the son of Robert and Mary L Crawford of South Shields and the husband of Ann Crawford of 75 Palmerston Street in South Shields.

Cregan, Patrick.

Able Seaman Patrick Cregan served with the Anson Battalion of the Royal Naval Division.

Fighting as infantry troops against the Turkish during the Gallipoli campaign Patrick Cregan received a gunshot wound to the chest and was taken aboard the hospital ship Sicilia.

With the ship bound for Alexandria in Egypt, Able Seaman Cregan died of his wounds at 7-30pm on May 23rd 1915 aged 22 and was buried at sea.

His name is remembered today on the Chatham Naval Memorial in Kent.

Patrick Cregan was the son of Sarah Dorothy and the late Thomas Cregan of 10 Italy Street in Middlesbrough and was the brother of Joseph Cregan listed above.

Crilly, J.

John Crilley was born in Gateshead and enlisted in Hartlepool into the 90th Brigade of the Royal Field Artillery.

Gunner Crilley died of wounds aged 24 on July 16th 1916.

His grave today lies in Vlamertinghe Military Cemetery situated three miles west of Ypres in Belgium.

John Crilley was the son of Sarah Jane and the late James Crilley of 24 Ashburn Street in Seaton Carew.

Croll, Junner McKenzie.

Junner McKenzie Croll was born in Middlesbrough where he worked as a house painter and enlisted in York.

With the 1st battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Croll was killed in action aged 37 on March 21st 1918 during the Battle of St Quentin.

His body lost to the battlefield, his name is remembered today on the Arras Memorial at the Faubourg D'Amiens Cemetery in Arras.

Cronin, Patrick.

Crookston, Alexander Semple.

Alexander Semple Crookston was born in Thornaby on March 20th 1891 and as a young man emigrated to Canada.

He followed his trade as a Shipwright and on the onset of war attested into the Canadian Infantry on September 23rd 1914.

Serving with the 16th battalion Manitoba Regiment, Private Crookston died during the 2nd Battle of Ypres on May 18th 1915 aged 24.

His body not recovered he is remembered today on the Canadian National Memorial on Vimy Ridge, eight miles north of Arras.

Alexander Crookston was the son of Mr A S Crookston of 8 Grange Road in Thornaby.

Crosby, John Dawson.

John Crosby was born and enlisted in Middlesbrough and lived in North Ormesby.

Serving with the 7th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Crosby was killed in action on December 26th 1916 in front line trenches at Lesboeufs.

Having no known grave, John Crosby is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial to the Missing set above the old Somme battlefield.

Crosby, Thomas Ranson.

Thomas Ranson Crosby served in the Royal Navy as a 1st Class Stoker aboard HMS Formidable of the 5th Battle Squadron.

Thomas Crosby lost his life at 2-30am on January 1st 1915 when the ship was hit by two torpedoes fired from U-24 as they sailed through Lyme Bay off the south coast.

His name is remembered today on the Chatham Naval Memorial in Kent.

Crouse, William Henry.

Correctly named William Henry Kraus, he was Middlesbrough born and enlisted in the town for service with the 111th Heavy Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery.

Wounded in action, Driver Kraus died of his injuries aged 31 on August 26th 1917 and today lies in Lijssenthoek Military Cemetery three miles south west of Poperinghe in Belgium.

He was the husband of Mrs Betsy Kraus of 2 Britannia Place in Dormanstown.

Crowther, C.

I believe this to be Whitby born Charles Henry Crowther who served in the Merchant Navy as Master of the SS Camellia.

He perished aged 40 on November 27th 1917 when the Camellia was lost of unknown cause in passage from Dakar to England.

He was the husband of Jane Isabella Crowther of 47 Riversdale Terrace in Sunderland and is remembered today on the Tower Hill Memorial in London.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Crowe, Norman.

Norman Crowe lived at Bulmer in Yorkshire and enlisted for service in York. With the 18th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment, Private Crowe was killed in action on November 13th 1916 in the front line in the Hebuterne sector. His grave can be visited today in Sailly-au-Bois Military Cemetery situated three miles north of Maily Mallet on the Somme.

Cruden, David.

David Cruden was born in Glasgow and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. Serving with the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cruden was killed in action on March 22nd 1918 in fighting around the village of Roupy. David Cruden has no known grave and is remembered today on the Pozieres Memorial situated along the road from Bapaume to Albert.

Cudd, A.

Arthur Cudd was born in Skinningrove and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 1st battalion of the Kings Royal Rifle Corps, Lance Corporal Cudd was killed in action aged 28 on February 17th 1917 during the Actions of Miraumont, part of the 1917 Operations on the Ancre. His grave today lies in Regina Trench Cemetery at Grandcourt to the north west of Courcellette on the Somme.

Cull, James Thomas.

James Thomas Cull was born in Port Clarence and enlisted in Middlesbrough. Serving with the 7th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cull died due to war related illness or accident on August 19th 1915 aged 25 when the battalion were based in the St Eloi sector to the south of Ypres. His grave can be seen today in Reninghelst Churchyard Extension situated four miles south east of Poperinghe in Belgium.

Crutchley, David.

Crutchley, R.

Robert Crutchley was born in Stockton and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough being a regular soldier before the war. With the 2nd battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, Private Crutchley was killed in action aged 35 on April 19th 1916 in fighting in the Ypres Salient. His grave can be visited today in Essex Farm Cemetery at Boesinghe, one and a half miles to the north of Ypres in Belgium.

Crymble, Cecil Reginald.

Cecil Reginald Crymble was born in Belfast on April 6th 1885.

He studied at Queens University in Belfast where he gained his BA and Diploma in Science.

He was described as

“A most popular and brilliant student whose most marked abilities were shown in chemical work”.

He was also president of the Students Union and keen member of the university Officer Training Corps from where as a 2nd Lieutenant he joined the 3rd battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers in December of 1910 being promoted to Lieutenant in August of 1912.

Cecil Crymble then went on to London where he held a post as a lecturer in Biological Chemistry at University College.

At the onset of war he returned to the Royal Irish Fusiliers and was attached to the 1st battalion in France.

Lt Cecil Reginald Crymble was killed by a sniper's bullet in trenches close to Armentieres on November 20th 1914 at the age of 29.

He has no known grave and his name is remembered today on the Ploegsteert Memorial situated along the road between Ypres and Armentieres.

Cecil Crymble was the youngest son of George Gordon Crymble and Agnes Templeton Crymble of Gordon House, Annadale.

Cunningham, George.

George Cunningham was born in Bishop Auckland and enlisted in Middlesbrough. Serving with the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cunningham was killed in action on October 18th 1916 in fighting at Bayonet and Bite trenches near Gueudecourt during the Battle of the Somme.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial set high above the old Somme battleground.

Cummings, J.

Double entry, see below.

Cummings, James.

James Cummings was born in Wallsend and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough. With the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Cummings was killed in action on June 15th 1915 in a 6-00am attack during the Battle of Givenchy.

His body lost his name is remembered today on the Le Touret Memorial situated four and a half miles north east of Bethune.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cunio, Austin.

I can find no mention of Austin Cunio in the Rolls of the Fallen, the only information I have is from the Medal Index Cards which show that he was a Driver with the Royal Field Artillery.

Cunningham, Peter.

Peter Cunningham was born in Middlesbrough and served in the Merchant Navy as a Foreman aboard the SS Maindy Bridge.

He lost his life on December 8th 1917 aged 42 when the ship was torpedoed without warning and sunk by submarine four miles north east of Sunderland.

His name is remembered today on the Tower Hill Memorial in Trinity Square close to the Tower of London.

Peter Cunningham was the son of Peter and Frances Cunningham and the husband of Annie Cunningham, nee McEvoy of 9 Model Dwellings, Station Street in Middlesbrough.

Cunningham, William Hy.

William Henry Cunningham was born and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Serving with the 21st Trench Mortar Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Gunner Cunningham was killed in action on June 24th 1916 during the artillery bombardment that led up to the start of the Battle of the Somme.

His grave today lies in Norfolk Cemetery in the village of Becordel-Becourt, one mile to the east of Albert.

William Cunningham was the son of Thomas and Mary Jane Cunningham of 17 Punch Street in Middlesbrough.

Curd, Oswald Vivian.

Oswald Vivian Curd enlisted in Middlesbrough and was also born in the town.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment he then transferred over to the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment.

Military Medal holder Lance Corporal Curd was killed in action aged 23 on April 16th 1918 during the Battles of the Lys.

Having no known grave his name is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial situated five miles east of Ypres in Belgium.

Oswald Curd was the son of Stephen Sargent Curd and Annie Curd of 47 Mill Street, Newport in Middlesbrough.

Curley, J.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Curran, John Thomas.

John Thomas Curran was born and enlisted in Middlesbrough.

Serving with the 8th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Curran was wounded in action at the Battle of Messines on June 7th 1917 and died of his injuries in hospital on July 1st 1917 aged 23.

His grave can be visited today in St Sever Cemetery Extension in the southern suburbs of the city of Rouen.

Curson, F.

Frank Curzon was born at Wincham in Cheshire and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Originally with the Yorkshire Regiment Private Curzon then transferred to the 1st battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment and was killed in action with them on April 25th 1918 during the Battles of the Lys.

Frank Curzon has no known grave and is remembered today on the Tyne Cot Memorial set close to the Passchendaele Ridge.

Curtis, Joseph Patrick.

Joseph Patrick Curtis was born in Folkestone in Kent and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

With the 4th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment, Private Curtis was killed in action on October 17th 1915 aged 21 in fighting close to Armentieres.

His grave today lies in Chapelle-D'Armentieres New Military Cemetery in the village of that name, one mile west of Armentieres.

Joseph Curtis was the son of William and Ellen Curtis of 17 Spring Gardens, Peter Street in Dover.

Cutler, Joseph.

Joseph Cutler was born in Sheffield, enlisted in Middlesbrough and lived in North Ormesby.

Serving with the 1/5th battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment during the Battle of the Somme, Private Cutler was killed in action aged 44 on July 9th 1916 in fighting close to Authuille.

His body not recovered his name is remembered today on the Thiepval Memorial set high above the old battleground.

Joseph Cutler was the husband of Elizabeth Park Cutler of 73 Worsley Street in North Ormesby.

Names on the Middlesbrough War Memorial

Cox, Frederick Paling.

Frederick Paling Cox was born in Great Broughton near Stokesley and enlisted for service in Middlesbrough.

Serving with the 152nd Heavy Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Gunner Cox died at sea while in transit on August 3rd 1918 at the age of 22.

His name is remembered today on the Hollybrook Memorial in Southampton's Hollybrook Cemetery.

Frederick Cox was the son of Henry George and Elizabeth Mary Cox of 126 Union Street in Middlesbrough.

Crosthwaite, Frederick.

Frederick Crosthwaite was born and lived in Middlesbrough and enlisted for service in Darlington.

With the 112th Siege Battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery, Gunner Crosthwaite was killed in action on July 22nd 1916 aged 32 during the Battle of the Somme.

His grave can be visited today in Bertrancourt Military Cemetery situated close to Mailly-Maillet on the Somme.

Frederick Crosthwaite was the son of Thomas and Jane Ann Crosthwaite of Middlesbrough.