

The Middlesbrough Roll of Honour of the Great War Names “Q”

Compiled by Robert Coulson (1952 – 2008)

In the years 1914-1918 thousands of Middlesbrough men and women served their country in a time of hardship, stress and suffering both for the troops on the battlefronts and those left at home.

After the Armistice in November of 1918 handsome memorial tablets and plaques recalling the fallen were erected in the works, shops and churches of the Middlesbrough area.

At this time a committee was formed to consider the question of a war memorial for the town as a whole to remember the citizens who had laid down their lives.

In the words of the committee,

“We recognise the splendid sacrifice made by our men and we desire that our children and our children’s’ children should hear the story and share in the inspiration which such sacrifice will always give”.

The response of the townspeople resulted in the fine cenotaph of Aberdeen granite and the wall of Portland stone containing the bronze panels with the names of the fallen that we see today at the entrance to Albert Park.

The memorial works were completed at a cost of approximately £17,000 and the people of the town attended in their thousands for the dedication and unveiling ceremony which took place on November 11th 1922.

This roll of honour contains close to 3500 names of the fallen who are remembered on the memorial and also those whose names were put forward by their families after the unveiling ceremony.

I felt it fitting that as the centenary of the onset of the Great War approaches I should try and add a little information on those remembered and the actions in which they laid down their lives.

I would just add that much as I regret it, details on some of theses brave people is not available due to the passage of time but their names will still appear in the text as they do on the memorial panels.

Finally just a few points to consider,

It will be noticed that on some of the entries no Middlesbrough connection may be obvious, indeed the person appears to have come from well outside the area or even the country.

It must be remembered that it was the townspeople who put the names forward for inclusion and as an example a relation who stayed with the family in the town occasionally, could well appear after his family took the trouble to forward the name.

Middlesbrough was a thriving centre of industry at the time and a person may well have been employed in the town before hostilities and had their name included by workmates.

Serving under an alias is also quite common and although sometimes used to cover criminal activity, was normally just a person keen to serve but underage and using another identity.

Also a mother who had taken another man's name might have offspring who preferred to serve using their natural father's name.

Double entries for the same name also appear quite a few times, for example, Samuel Alder and S Alder.

I believe they are one and the same person named twice as a result of a large family with different branches putting the name forward twice.

The person will appear in the listing as named on the memorial with any variations in spelling and second names being included in the text.

It will be noticed that some entries begin "I believe this to be".

These are people who to the best of my judgement are those named but can not be 100% certain. They are included with the best intentions and if a mistake is made I make my apologies in advance.

Robert Henry Coulson died on 8 November 2008. His papers were donated to the Green Howards Museum in Richmond, and the work below comes from these papers.

Quinn, Andrew.

Born in the St Hildas area of Middlesbrough, Andrew Quinn enlisted in the town into the Yorkshire Regiment and then transferred to the 8th battalion of the Cheshire Regiment.

Corporal Quinn was wounded in actions at the capture of the Hai Salient during the campaign in Mesopotamia and died of his wounds aged 32 on February 8th 1917. His grave today lies in Amara War Cemetery in the town of Amara close to the river Tigris in Iraq.

Andrew Quinn was the son of the late John and Elizabeth Quinn.

Quinn, Edward.

Edward Quinn was Middlesbrough born and enlisted in the town with the 9th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment.

Military Medal holder Sergeant Quinn was killed in actions during the capture of the village of Beaurevoir on October 5th 1918 at the age of 23.

Buried close to where he fell, his grave can be visited today in Beaurevoir Communal Cemetery British Extension, midway between Cambrai and St Quentin.

Quinn, John Joseph.

Living in Middlesbrough, John Joseph Quinn enlisted in West Hartlepool for service with the 6th battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers.

Private Quinn was wounded in fighting at "The Pimple" during the campaign on Gallipoli and died of his injuries on August 15th 1915 at the age of 25.

The husband of Francis Annie Quinn of 86 Denmark Street in Middlesbrough he is remembered on the Helles Memorial at the southern tip of the Gallipoli peninsula.

Quinn, Matthew.

Matthew Quinn was North Ormesby born, enlisting in Middlesbrough for war service with the 7th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment.

Sergeant Quinn was killed in action aged 31 on February 8th 1917 in fighting to capture the village of Sailly-Saillisel on the Somme.

Matthew Quinn was the son of Mrs Bridget Loftus of 42 Lime Street in Middlesbrough and with no known grave is remembered on the Thiepval Memorial on the Somme.

Quinn, Thomas.

Middlesbrough born Thomas Quinn did his war service with the 13th battalion of the Durham Light Infantry.

Private Quinn died of war related illness or injury after the end of the war on February 15th 1919 at the age of 31.

The son of Mrs Quinn of 5 Lynas Place in Redcar, his grave lies in St Josephs Roman Catholic Cemetery in North Ormesby.