

The Middlesbrough

Roll of Honour of the Great War

Supplementary Names, - "T"

Compiled by Robert Coulson (1952 – 2008)

The names below are found on the Supplementary Panels on the Middlesbrough War Memorial. The names were received for inclusion after the official unveiling of the Memorial, and are included on the 3 supplementary panels.

In the years 1914-1918 thousands of Middlesbrough men and women served their country in a time of hardship, stress and suffering both for the troops on the battlefronts and those left at home.

After the Armistice in November of 1918 handsome memorial tablets and plaques recalling the fallen were erected in the works, shops and churches of the Middlesbrough area.

At this time a committee was formed to consider the question of a war memorial for the town as a whole to remember the citizens who had laid down their lives. In the words of the committee,

“We recognise the splendid sacrifice made by our men and we desire that our children and our children’s’ children should hear the story and share in the inspiration which such sacrifice will always give”.

The response of the townspeople resulted in the fine cenotaph of Aberdeen granite and the wall of Portland stone containing the bronze panels with the names of the fallen that we see today at the entrance to Albert Park.

The memorial works were completed at a cost of approximately £17,000 and the people of the town attended in their thousands for the dedication and unveiling ceremony which took place on November 11th 1922.

This roll of honour contains close to 3500 names of the fallen who are remembered on the memorial and also those whose names were put forward by their families after the unveiling ceremony.

I felt it fitting that as the centenary of the onset of the Great War approaches I should try and add a little information on those remembered and the actions in which they laid down their lives.

I would just add that much as I regret it, details on some of these brave people is not available due to the passage of time but their names will still appear in the text as they do on the memorial panels.

Finally just a few points to consider,

It will be noticed that on some of the entries no Middlesbrough connection may be obvious, indeed the person appears to have come from well outside the area or even the country.

It must be remembered that it was the townspeople who put the names forward for inclusion and as an example a relation who stayed with the family in the town occasionally, could well appear after his family took the trouble to forward the name.

Middlesbrough was a thriving centre of industry at the time and a person may well have been employed in the town before hostilities and had their name included by workmates.

Serving under an alias is also quite common and although sometimes used to cover criminal activity, was normally just a person keen to serve but underage and using another identity.

Also a mother who had taken another man's name might have offspring who preferred to serve using their natural father's name.

Double entries for the same name also appear quite a few times, for example, Samuel Alder and S Alder.

I believe they are one and the same person named twice as a result of a large family with different branches putting the name forward twice.

The person will appear in the listing as named on the memorial with any variations in spelling and second names being included in the text.

It will be noticed that some entries begin "I believe this to be".

These are people who to the best of my judgement are those named but can not be 100% certain. They are included with the best intentions and if a mistake is made I make my apologies in advance.

Robert Henry Coulson died on 8 November 2008. His papers were donated to the Green Howards Museum in Richmond, and the work below comes from these papers.

Tann, Benjamin.

Born and living in North Ormesby, Benjamin Tann enlisted in Richmond into the 2nd battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Tann was killed in fighting close to Veldhoek during the 1st Battle of Ypres on November 5th 1914 aged 24.

He has no known final resting place and is remembered on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres in Belgium.

Teasdale, Samuel.

Samuel Teasdale was born in Middlesbrough where he enlisted with the Yorkshire Regiment and then transferred to the 22nd Company of the Labour Corps.

Private Teasdale was killed in actions during the Passchendaele offensive on September 29th 1917 at the age of 30 and lies in Ypres Reservoir Cemetery just to the north west of the town centre.

He was the son of Thomas and Catherine Teasdale of 43 Prince Charles Street in Middlesbrough.

Thomas, Thomas Henry.

Middlesbrough born and enlisting in the town, Thomas Henry Thomas did his war service with the 6th battalion of the Yorkshire Regiment.

Private Thomas was killed in actions close to Jephson's Post north east of Suvla Bay during the Gallipoli campaign on November 19th 1915.

His grave can be seen today in Hill 10 Cemetery to the north of the Salt Lake on the Gallipoli peninsula.

Trewren, John Bell.

John Bell Trewren was Middlesbrough born and served in the Merchant Navy as a steward aboard the SS Henry R James.

He died aged 31 on July 16th 1917 when the Henry R James struck a mine ten miles north east of the Ile De Bas off the coast of Brittany.

John Trewren was the son of Joseph and Annie Elizabeth Trewren and the husband of Nellie Trewren, nee Wein of 111 Glebe Road in Middlesbrough.

His name is remembered on the Tower Hill Memorial to merchant seamen in Trinity Square in London.

Tyler, Edward Ernest Albert.

A Bosun in the Merchant Navy, Edward Ernest Albert Tyler served aboard the SS Coonagh.

He perished aged 31 in late March 1917 when the Coonagh was sunk by a submarine in the English Channel, the exact date not known.

Edward Tyler was the husband of Mrs Maude Mary Tyler of 1 South Street in Middlesbrough and his name is remembered on the Tower Hill Memorial.